HOMECOMING HIGHLIGHTS SPIRIT WEEK

Friday, October 3, highlighted a week of spirit rousing. That evening the homecoming parade, displaying the colorful floats and the queen candidates, wound its way through downtown Marietta ... to Don Drum field where the Tigers and Cambridge Bobcats tangled in their annual encounter. At half-time, after the Tigers had amassed twenty-one points and had shut out their opponent, Karen Bergen relinquished the Homecoming crown to Carol Barry, and the judges declared the Senior float the best in the competition. As a fitting conclusion to the night's activities, the varsity defeated Cambridge 23-0. Homecoming activities concluded Saturday night with the traditional dance sponsored by the sophomore class.

1. The Homecoming queen candidates were Neva Weber, Jenny Burton, Suzanne Wiblin, Beth Robinson, and Carol Barry.
2. Students celebrated at the Homecoming dance.
3. Student Body President Suzi Miller and sophomore class President Joe Erb enjoyed a dance after the pressures of Spirit Week.

6. Junior Varsity Cheerleaders roused spirits before the game.

SPIRIT WEEK PREVAILS AT MSHS

The week of Homecoming was an exciting one. Lockers, walls, windows, and floors were a mass of orange and black as students involved themselves in the hall decorating contest. Students also dressed for toga day, switch day, orange-and-black day, and western day. On western day they enjoyed the luxury of a one-hour lunch held outside, complete with a square dance and live band. In addition, all three classes competed in rock painting, ice-cream eating, a VW "stuff," and other activities. At the pep assembly which concluded the week's activities, Seniors were declared the class with the most overall spirit, having won most of the competition. Juniors won the hall-decorating contest while Sophomores received first place for rock decoration.

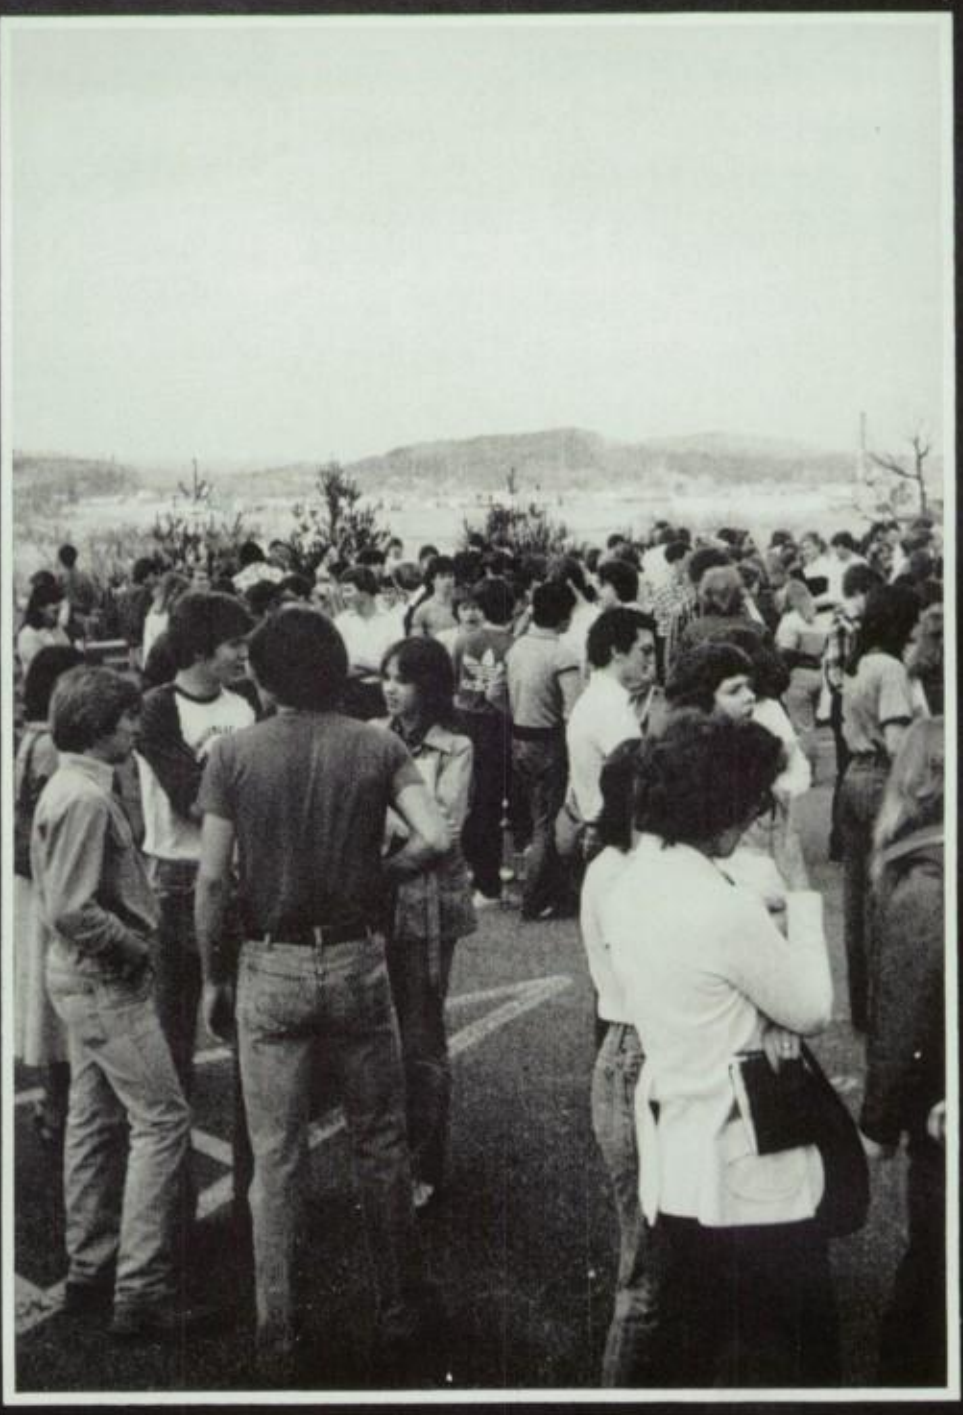
Student Body Experiences

Bomb Scare

At 12:02 on Wednesday, March 18, Mrs. Wetzel, secretary to the principal, received a phone call informing her that a bomb was planted in the main building and was scheduled to explode in twenty minutes. Immediately thereafter the fire alarm evacuated the building, and students remained outside for about forty-five minutes while the police and school officials conducted a search for the reported bomb. Fortunately, the search revealed that there was no bomb, and students returned to class.



VARIETY ARRIVES ON WHEELS

In spite of the bus system, a variety of "wheels" occupied the student parking lot. Wheels ranged from fancy banana yellow Corvettes to military-type land rovers and from well-used Oldsmobiles to new Yamahas.

Actually, the four "clergymen" present the conflict since two are impostors and two are really clergymen, but no one can make the distinction.

TEACHERS ENTERTAIN STUDENT BODY

To break the monotony of spring fever the teachers, with the help of Student Council, put on an entertainment assembly. The entertainment took the form of a variety show emceed by Mr. LeClair and his student teacher, Miss Selecky. Since the assembly was intended for laughs, spoofs dominated the entertainment. Mr. Powell and members of the business department presented a spoof of the movie "9 to 5"; several other teachers joined in a spoof of student activity in and out of the classroom, while still others gave their rendition of the Charleston. On the more serious side were a flute solo and a piano duet.

Class Song: "Road Of Time" By Lynn Rudolph

Hello, tomorrow,
We see you're headin' our way.
Push away the memories;
Good-bye yesterday.

We hate to leave here.
We hate to leave our friends.
And it hurts to realize
All good things must end.

Now we must travel
Down the road of time,
And we must leave
All others far behind and go away.

With each passing moment
A good time slips away.
If only the time clock
Would go the other way.

We know each other well now,
And love each other more.
This special closeness
Was never there before.

ACTIVITIES

Marietta Senior High School

The plot of the all-school play, Oklahoma, centered around a young couple who fell in love. Throughout the play, the audience shared their good times and bad, including a dream that Laurie had which helped her to decide that she really loved Curly. Jud, the hired-hand, was an evil man who also loved Laurie. He was killed when he fell on his own knife during a fight with Curly after Jud had tried to "kiss the bride." The happy couple then settled down to a farm life in Oklahoma. Also involved in the play were Aunt Eller who knew Laurie and Curly were in love from the start; Ado Annie, who "can't say no" and couldn't decide whether to marry Ali Hakim (the peddler man) or Will Parker; and Gertie, whose laugh drove the citizens of Oklahoma crazy, but kept the audience in stitches. Other cast members and dancers got involved during the dream ballet, the box social, the wedding party, and to see Laurie and Curly off in their surrey as they left for their honeymoon in the big finale.

Curly prepared to defend himself when he heard Judd's gun fire after an argument over Laurie.

VOCATIONAL STUDENTS LEARN JOB SKILLS

Washington County Joint Vocational School services the Belpre, Marietta, Fort Frye, Frontier, Warren, and Wolf Creek areas. This year approximately 650 students attended JVS, 221 of whom were from Marietta. Offered to them were twenty-three different two-year vocational programs in five areas of education: agricultural, business and office, distributive, home economics, and trade and industrial. Students in these programs participated in various job-related projects. For example, those in drafting, carpentry, masonry, electricity, and horticulture combined their efforts to plan, build, wire, and landscape a house on Cole Coffman Road.

"Devo" characters Dave Hazelton and Rob Beard presented "Jocko Homo."

Dan Littlefield, Steve Rosenblum, Mike Smith, and Jon Hartlage presented "1980".

Duff Swain served as master of ceremonies.

Jon Hartlage sang "I Made It Through the Rain."

Pam Griffiths and Kerry Blair provided comic relief.

The student entertainment assembly featured a variety of musical acts. Jon Hartlage sang "I Made It Through the Rain," a Barry Manilow hit song; "Devo" sang their version of "Jocko Homo"; and a group of junior girls performed a routine called "Greased Lightening." Other acts included baton twirling, country and western songs, and comic relief, the latter being provided by Pam Griffiths and Kerry Blair.

Jeff Offenberger sang "Bridge over Troubled Water."

Julie Biehl twirled her baton to "Sunset People."

Cris Winer danced to Billy Joel's "The Stranger."

Country music was represented by Mike Popp and Billy Burkhart playing "Dueling Banjos."

"Go Greased Lightening" provided the music for the dance routine of ten junior girls.

JUNIORS PROVIDE CRUISE

The theme for the Junior Prom was "Sailing Together." After couples arrived and crossed the gang plank to the "Love Boat," they were welcomed on board by Captain Luthy and cruise director Nancy Mangiafico. After the welcome, boarders made their way to the gym which had been decorated and changed into a viewing deck of a ship. In this setting those in attendance danced to the sounds of "Patience."

Lynn Rudolph and Jennifer Haupt prepared Sutton Gymnasium for the prom.

Prom queen and king candidates were ROW 1 Cindy Merrow, Laura Jones, Queen Lynn Rudolph, King Keith Wharton, Kerry McCarthy, and Amy Archer; ROW 2 Steve Roberts, Eric Denton, Todd Weihl, and Wayne Anderson.

Hosts and hostesses for the evening were Joe Wharff, Dale Robinson, Pat Ellis, Gary Hart, Jeff Pritchett, and (seated) Jeri Gruber.

Lynn Rudolph and Keith Wharton enjoyed a moment together after being crowned queen and king.

Steve Kostelnick and Dena Simmons helped create the illusion of an ocean view.

Wendy Shuler, Joe Matthews, and Tracy Skeen readied souvenir glasses for the evening's entertainment.

Seniors Conclude Year

Seniors concluded their school activities with the annual memories assembly and the breakfast. Roberta Schneider and Cindy Hintz practiced "Tomorrow" while Joe Neely looked on.

John Walsh reminisced with "Stay the Way You Are."

Pam Griffiths and Dave Zide emceed the assembly.

ORGANIZATIONS

Orian members were Penny Rahe, Kelly Van Wey, Siobhan Craddock, Pam Griffiths, Kym Walton, Dave Brown and Beth Foshee.

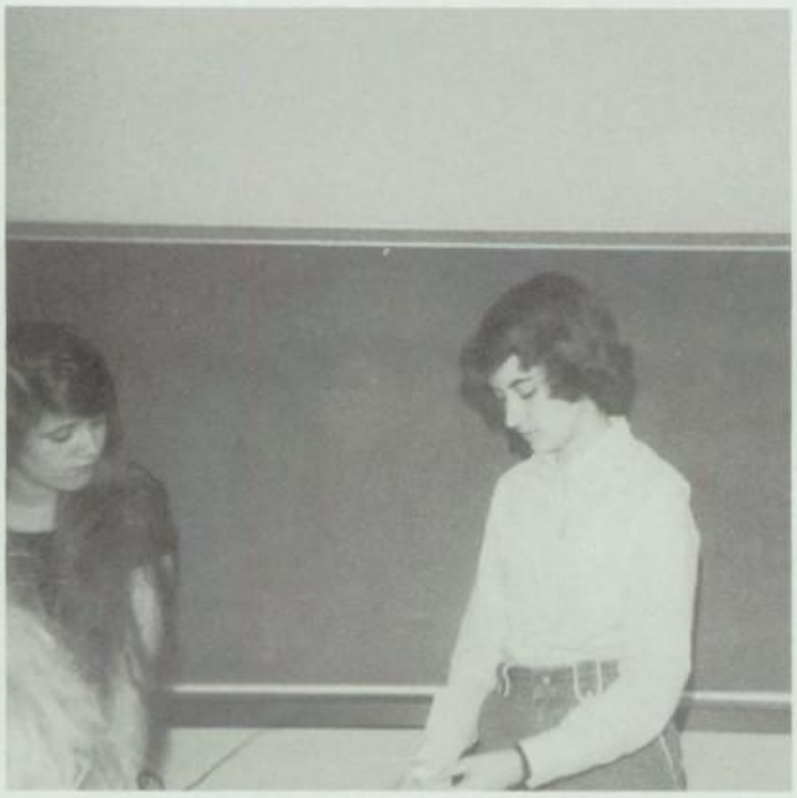
Beth Foshee was hard at work on the underclassmen layout.

Editor Ann Cutsumbis discussed copy techniques with Mrs. Cline.

Pam Griffiths spruced up her appearance for the Orian.

NOVICE STAFF PRODUCES ORIAN

At the end of the first semester the Orian staff lost several members due to schedule conflicts, and the staff that remained was a small group of seniors, only two of whom had had previous yearbook experience. Because of the novice staff and the lack of a photographer, the book contained fewer pages, no index and less color. Perhaps the most outstanding features of the book were the embossed cover and the semi-fold end sheets.



Siobhan Craddock conferred with the editor.

Kelly Van Wey prepared sports pages for a deadline.

Kym Walton identified group shots.

Editor Ann Cutsumbis searched for materials.

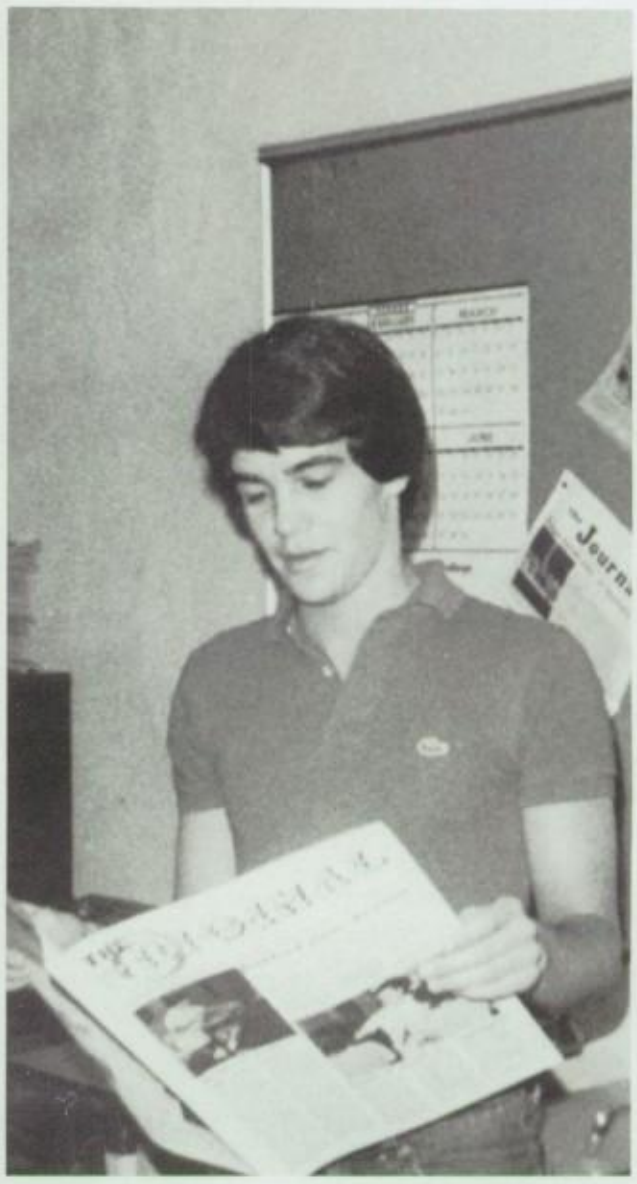
Staff Has Busy Year

Biweekly publications of the ORIGINAL and the ORIGINAL broadsheet kept the staff busy. Both of these publications expressed opinions of both faculty and students and reported items of interest in regard to sports, activities, and entertainment. In addition the staff produced "Tiger Times," which appeared biweekly in the Marietta Times and informed the community of school activities. Finally, the staff presented "Tiger Times on the Air" biweekly from radio station WMOA.

Editor Kerry Fleming worked to meet a deadline.

Staff members included ROW 1 Kathy Newman, Gretchen Knellinger, Lois Foreshee, Amy Turney, Shirley Shepard; ROW 2 Paul Robertson, Kerry Ward, Mary Forbes; ROW 3 Gary Dailey, Clint Ashcraft, Elizabeth Bergen, Edward Whang, Katja Bojarin, Ray Beach, Dan Rose, Robin Kingma, Kerry Fleming, John Hammet, Joe Neely, Andy Thompson, John Walsh, John Wharff, and Dan White; ROW 3 Terry Noe and Donn Schafer.

Andy Thompson, Mike Taylor, Mary Forbes, John Wharff, and Dan Rose prepared materials.



Mike Taylor reviewed the final product.

Andy Thompson and Kerry Ward received some advice from Mike Taylor.

John Hammet arranged articles for a layout.

Lois Foreshee served as one of the staff photographers.

Musical Groups Offer

All the musical groups were busy from September through May. Besides giving performances on special occasions, the choir attended various contests throughout the state. "Encore," a select group from the larger choir, presented concerts and went on tour during spring break. In Orlando, Florida, they performed at three senior citizen centers as well as at Williams Park. In order to finance the tour they presented a two-day dinner show at the National Guard Armory. "Emanon" (which is "no name" spelled backwards) was a variety band group which played contemporary, jazz, and rock on various occasions. The concert band also provided entertainment throughout the year in addition to competing in contests. The marching band's big events, of course, were their half-time shows during football season and their participation in the Band-O-Rama Festival.

One of their big hits was dressing in the basketball player' pajamas and having two representatives from each class match the PJ's with the team member to whom they belonged.

There are many people whom I would like to thank because when the book looked impossible and the work endless, it was all possible with these people: Siobhan Craddock, Beth Foshee, Pam Griffiths, Lisa Heldman, Mark Siders, and Kym Walton. I extend a very special thanks to Penny Rahe and Kelly Van Wey for spending many nights working during their summer vacation. I would also like to thank photographers Ray Beach, Dave Brown, Tim Turney, and Dan White, and a special thanks to Mel Samples.

The person to whom I am most grateful, because of her patience, extreme helpfulness, and stamina to continue when the staff didn't want to, and for being a friend, is Mrs. Kay Cline.

The 1981 Orian was printed by Josten's/American Yearbook Co., Clarksville, Tennessee. All printing was done using offset lithography process.

Paper stock is 80 lb. gloss and endsheets are 65 lb. paper stock.

The book cover is a Craftline, embossed with a black whirlpool grain overtone and silver metalay.

Type is Lydian bold, regular and boldface. Headlines vary from 24 point to 60 point. Body copy and captions vary from 8 point to 12 point.

The Orian contains 172 pages and had a production budget of approximately $10,000.
